

TRIBAL DRINKING WATER CONFERENCE

Registration is now open!

VIRTUAL EVENT

START: Monday, May 3, 2021, 8:00 AM

END: Friday, May 7, 2021, 1:00 PM

Pacific Time

Click here for session descriptions

*It is recommended that you preview the session titles and descriptions prior to registering.

Click here to register

Protecting drinking water quality and ensuring a sufficient supply are complex responsibilities. Tribal utilities must have the financial stability, managerial competence and technical skills to address their immediate and projected drinking water needs, and protect community health and well-being in a sustainable manner. They must make decisions on operating costs, aging infrastructure, and much more on a daily basis.

Join your colleagues, EPA and RCAC for this live, interactive event, to learn new skills, gain information, earn contact hours, network, and of course have a little fun!

Be the first 175 attendees to register for the Tribal Drinking Water Conference, and you will receive a free snack box mailed to your home, as well as two (2) support items that will be free and yours to keep: headphones, wireless earbuds, or webcams. The purpose of these free devices is to allow utility staff to become fully immersed in the virtual conference experience. These devices are intended for water utility personnel attending from Tribes located within USEPA Region 9 (Arizona, California and Nevada). These complimentary devices are yours to keep.

These devices additionally encourage social distancing and COVID safety guidance. For participants planning to gather in-person as a group at your location to jointly participate in the virtual conference, we ask that you limit your request for these devices and help keep supplies available for those that are practicing social distancing.

For more information, please contact:

Angela Hengel, RCAC • (760) 809-1275 • ahengel@rcac.org

